Genoa, November 5.

ON the 16th paſt an Attempt was made by Six Corſican Male-contents (who had an Underſtanding with ſome of the Burghers) to ſurpriſe the Caſtle of Hiace. The Two Principals, who were Father and Son, by Name Maſſaria, killed the Two firſt Centinels; they advanced towards the third, who, firing upon them, killed the Son and wounded the Father, which gave the Alarm to the Officers and Troops in the Caſtle: The five ſurviving Male-contents being ſeized, they confeſſed, that a Body of Three Hundred was at a ſmall Diſtance, who was to come to their Aſſiſtance upon making a Signal; the Governor, having poſted his Troops, and called into the Caſtle about Two Hundred Coral Fiſhers, made the Signal, which was to have been made by the Conſpirators: The Male-contents appeared ſoon after, but finding the Deceit, after ſome Hours firing, were obliged to retire, leaving Twelve of their Companions behind them dead. As no wounded were found, it is conjectured they carried them off. The Genoeſe had only one Soldier wounded, beſides the two Centinels that were killed. Yeſterday Twenty-four Corſican Male-contents, which were confined in a Dungeon, found Means to break out, and got into Churches at a ſmall Diſtance (except one who got a-board a Tuſcan Veſſel in Port;) Orders were ſent immediately to a Body of Troops to ſurround the Churches to prevent their eſcaping, until the Government ſhould agree with the Arch-biſhop for their being delivered again into Cuſtody.

Three Days ago arrived a Dutch Ship of War from Algiers; the Captain ſays, that the French Conſul is confined to his Houſe, and the French Factory was at Liberty; that the Algerines had not formally declared War againſt the French. He ſays, that on the 13th paſt five Algerine Xebecks, and a Polacca, ſailed on a Cruize; that on the 16th they fell in with the large Genoeſe Ship, that ſailed from this Port a Month ago for Cadiz. The Algerines attempted twice to board her, but were beat off by the Genoeſe: Four of the Xebecks being much ſhattered, and having loſt above 200 Men in the Engagement, they returned to Algiers the 19th, but could give no Tidings what Courſe the other Xebeck and Polacca had ſteered. The Genoeſe Ship was built near this City, had 36 Guns mounted, and carried 250 Men. It is loaden with Merchandize, and ſome Timber for Ships.
